Legislative Summary

We Are Your Voice. We Have Your Back.

You’re on the job every day, making sure the work gets done and earning a living for your family. Local 368 is on the job, too, looking out for you. We work the halls of government, providing lawmakers with information and input, because decisions they make can have a major impact on our Union members, building industry and state economy.

Prior to the 2018 Legislative Session, we noted activity in the Honolulu City Council supported by the Plumbers that would change City Building Codes and in effect increase the cost of building on Oahu. At the same time, the International Association of Plumbing and Mechanical Officials (IAPMO), publishers of the Uniform Plumbing Code, with support from Hawaii’s Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors Association (PAMCA), was proposing another measure at the State Building Codes Council that would have the same effect.

The increase in building costs would have a negative impact not only on the ability of the Laborers’ Union to obtain work for our members statewide, but would affect all other construction trades as well. This was brought to the attention of Business Manager/Secretary-Treasurer Peter Ganaban, and Senate Bill 3006 (SB 3006) was introduced in the 2018 Legislative Session to promote the use of alternative building codes statewide to counteract any actions supported by the Plumbers, IAPMO and PAMCA.

Meanwhile the Laborers Union worked with the Honolulu City Council to successfully thwart the action supported by the Plumbers. The same result was achieved at the State Building Codes Council with the State of Hawaii Attorney General issuing an opinion that secured the “status quo” and made SB 3006 no longer necessary to preserve the supply of jobs for our members in the future.

Building A Better Hawaii!
Make Your Vote Count!

Hawaii’s Primary Election is Aug. 11

Whether you’ve never missed voting in an election since turning 18 or have never cast a ballot in your life, it’s important for every eligible voter in Hawaii to do his or her civic duty and vote on Election Day. This year’s Primary Election is Saturday, August 11 with the General Election to be held on Tuesday, November 6.

In next month’s Primary Election, voters will be casting ballots according to their political party affiliation, which will enable winning candidates to advance to the General Election. Voters have crucial decisions to make for Governor and Lt. Governor. We also have important races in the U.S. House of Representatives and one for U.S. Senator. There are also interesting races on the state and county levels that will affect Hawaii’s future.

This election is about jobs. As a union, we look for labor-friendly candidates who will stand up for the rights of working people and keep a steady stream of job opportunities coming for those in the workforce today as well as those entering the workforce in the years to come.

This election is about education. We want our children to have the best chance in a future that will be dominated by amazing technological advances and global competition. Our schools need to be well maintained, our classrooms well equipped, our teachers well prepared, and our children well educated to meet the challenges of the future.

This election is about affordable housing. We need to be building more homes, but more importantly, we need to be building more homes our workers can afford to buy. Homes offer our families more than shelter. Homes also provide safety, security and a financial foundation from which families can benefit for generations.

This election is about our economy. We are coming off a construction boom, but we are not done yet. Tourism, construction and the military are the economic forces that shape our state and its future. Look around and see how much still needs to be done to ensure our communities and our state keep growing and remain places where our workers and their families can thrive.

This election is about leadership on every level of government. We need visionary, collaborative, labor-friendly leaders who can make the right decisions for our future, bring all the stakeholders together to solve the issues that need resolution, and give working families the opportunities to enjoy life in these islands, our home.

So remember that voting is both a right and a privilege. Study the candidates and issues. Make sure your vote counts!

WAGE THEFT IS A CRIME

WHAT IS WAGE THEFT?

Wage theft is the denial of wages and/or employee benefits that are rightfully owed to an employee. Wage theft can be conducted through various means such as:

- failure to pay overtime
- kickback payments to your employer
- employee misclassification
- illegal deductions in pay
- working off the clock or
- not being paid at all

On construction projects, these are violations of labor and/or prevailing wage laws.

STOP WAGE THEFT HAWAII

2018 Election Calendar

Who can vote?
You must be a U.S. citizen, State of Hawaii resident and at least 18 years of age to be eligible to vote.

How do I register to vote?
1) Register online at elections.hawaii.gov using your Hawaii Driver’s License (or Hawaii State ID card) and your Social Security Number; 2) Pick up a “Voter Registration and Permanent Absentee Form” at public libraries, city halls, U.S. post offices, most state agencies or in your telephone directories, complete the form and mail to your County Clerk’s Office; 3) Register in person at your County Clerk’s Office; 4) Do a late registration at an Early Walk-In Voting location; or 5) Register and vote at your assigned polling place on Election Day by presenting a valid ID.

What if I’ve changed my name or residence?
You must update your voter registration within 45 days of a change of name or residence. To update your voter registration, contact the Office of Elections at 808-453-8683 or call the Office of Elections at 808-453-8683 or 1-800-442-8683.

What if I work on Election Day?
Your employer is required by law to give you two hours off to vote if you cannot make it to the polls before or after your shift. You can also do Early Walk-In Voting (check the news for locations, dates and times).
Koa Ridge Community Draws Closer To Reality

Home buyers on Oahu are eagerly anticipating the start of construction on Koa Ridge, the 3,500-home master-planned community that Castle & Cooke Hawaii is expected to begin developing later this year on 576 acres in Waipio near Costco. Local 368 is also looking forward to having its members begin work on the project to help remedy some of Oahu’s lack of housing.

The long-awaited project first won approval from the state Land Use Commission in 2002. But legal challenges from the Sierra Club, Hawaii Chapter, and former state Sen. Clayton Hee stalled the project until the state Supreme Court dismissed their cases, finally giving Koa Ridge the go-ahead two years ago.

After DR Horton acquired 1,554 acres on the Ewa plain in 2006, its 11,750-home Hoopili project encountered similar opposition for years from environmentalists and community activists concerned about taking land out of agriculture for housing, despite the growing need for more homes – especially in the affordable range – on Oahu. Hoopili finally broke ground in September 2016 and delivered its first homes last summer.

However, the legal challenges and delays ironically add to the cost of these projects, making homes less affordable. In 2002, the cost of a single-family home was $350,000. Recently, the median price hit a record $795,000.

Thankfully, Castle & Cooke Hawaii and its CEO Harry Saunders have a solid track record for delivering a master-planned community. It’s been 11 years since Castle & Cooke Hawaii finished building its last house in Mililani, a community that earned the distinction of All-America City in 1985. The company carefully nurtured the development of Mililani over a period of 40 years, completing about 16,000 homes.

In addition to its 3,500 homes, which will be built incrementally beginning with market-priced single-family homes and row homes with affordable multifamily units, Koa Ridge will include a mix of housing, retail and restaurant spaces, and a medical center. The community will also feature light industrial space, parks, an elementary school, recreation center, churches and open space.

Clearing the Way For More Housing

The first signs that construction has begun on Koa Ridge took place in April when Royal Contracting Co. began securing the lot at the intersection of Ukee Street and Kamehameha Highway in Waipio. Then workers began clearing debris and erecting dust screens so grading of the property could take place.

“We have about 10 Laborers on site with some operating engineers,” said Leonard Leong, vice president of Royal Contracting. “The start of Koa Ridge is a welcome sign because it means more jobs will be created sooner rather than later, and there will be lots of Laborers work to come.

“With the luxury condos in Honolulu slowing down, we’re swinging over to work on homes, and that’s good because that’s what people need. We had about 50-60 Laborers on the job at Hoopili, so I imagine Koa Ridge will be similar.”

Additionally, three bills introduced in the 2018 Legislative Session, Senate Bill 2863, House Bill 1855 and House Bill 1585, all served to threaten the $1.4 billion Thirty Meter Telescope (TMT) project on Mauna Kea and/or the University of Hawaii’s ability to build there in the future. Fortunately, all died in committee discussions.

Senate Bill 2863 (The Ahu Bill) would have allowed for the erecting of monuments wherever a “cultural expert” designated a proper location for a monument. There were several problems with this bill. First, it did not define who would qualify as a cultural “expert.” Second, it would make the removal of a monument a felony. Most importantly, it could hinder all present and future construction in the State of Hawaii, such as the TMT.

Both HB 1855 and HB 1585 were “put and replace” bills aimed at forcing the University of Hawaii from the management of Mauna Kea or eliminating the University of Hawaii from the management of the mountaintop all together. The “net” effect of these bills would have further hindered the construction of the TMT atop Mauna Kea.

The 2018 Legislative Session, while unexpectedly busy for an election year, turned out to be a successful session not only in terms of protecting present and future work for our Laborers’ Union members, but also present and future work for the construction industry as a whole.
